HARDING IN MOVE TO END COAL STRIKE

President Has Plan for Negotiating Differences Between Mine Operators and Union Members

STATES OF MIDDLE AND NORTH WEST FACE COAL SHORTAGE

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Plans to Fight to Control Runaway Coal Market

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Indications were given at the White House Tuesday that the government soon would be able to make an announcement in the coal strike situation and that the step contemplated was to move to bring the leaders of the union miners and representative operators together for a discussion of wage differences.

The coal situation in all its ramifications was understood to be one of the chief topics up for consideration by President Harding's cabinet meeting. Just what form the move by the government will take no official was prepared to state, though it was understood that some government officials, after conferring with John L. Lewis, president of the Miners' union, were of the opinion that no break whatever could be expected in the ran ranks of union labor and that a move was necessary to bring operators into a conference at once.

Keep Plan Confidential

President Harding was said to feel that the "difficult and delicate" negotiations between individuals and the government necessary to bring about the meeting desired would not be aided by public discussion. Operators who have objected to meeting the miners in national or semi-annual wage conferences, and mine union spokesmen who have been refusing to meet operators in district conferences cannot be induced to yield their objections if they are publicly forced into concessions in the opinion of the president.

Further, the administration, it was said, does not yet contemplate any intervention except by persuasion and conciliation.

Request for an administration expression in view of the Herrin, Illinois, disorders brought forth this statement: "Murder is murder wherever committed, by whomsoever committed and there is never extenuation."

Central West Faces Shortage

CHICAGO, Ill.—Central and northwestern states face an almost certain coal car famine next fall and winter, according to railroad officials and coal retailers.

Coupled with the warning of an impending car shortage was the announcement by retailers that prices for soft coal will be advanced July 1 and that all chances of cheaper coal this year have departed.

To Fight Price Boosting

Business organizations affiliated with the Chambers of Commerce of the United States were called upon Tuesday by Julius H. Barnes, president of the chamber, to lend their cooperation in the effort to prevent a runaway coal market by setting up machinery for co-ordinating the distribution of coal among their local individual consumers. Each of the fourteen hundred organizations—chambers of commerce and trade associations—was urged to appoint a fuel committee and make an immediate survey of the local coal situation.

British Government Issues Warning To Irish Free State Against Further Disorders

LONDON.—The Evening News Tuesday says the British government sent a warning last Saturday to the Irish provisional government, declaring that if the latter's government authority to restore order were not exercised, the British government would have to take action.

The British communication, according to the newspaper, requested the provisional government "to act promptly and vigorously to break up the organization for intimidation and murder which is designed to wreck the treaty and is directed, in the opinion of His Majesty's government, from the four courts in Dublin." The News says the warning does not contain a time limit and cannot be described as an ultimatum.

A virtual vote of confidence was given the government by the house of commons last night when it defeated by 432 to 75, a motion proposed by the "die hards" for a reduction in the salary of the chief secretary for Ireland in disapproval of the government's policy and the failure to protect Field Marshal Wilson.

Proclaim Neutral Zone

BELFAST.—The big neutral zone experiment, establishing a five-mile strip of neutral territory in the Pettigoe and Belleek districts of the Ulster-Free State border, under a triple agreement between the British, the provisional and northern governments, came into effect Tuesday, Premier Sir James Craig of Ulster told an interviewer.

Premier Craig said the military took complete control of two and one half miles on either side of the border, the Ulster constabulary taking one side of the border and the Free State police unarmed occupying the other side.

DELEGATE TO DEMOCRATIC MEET ASKS SUBMISSION OF DRY AMENDMENT TO PEOPLE

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—By the Associated Press.—Submission of the eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution to the people through the medium of constitutional conventions, is called for by resolution which Judge Martin L. Lueck of Juneau has prepared and will bring before the democratic state convention here today. He proposes the resolution as a solution of the wet and dry division which faces the party delegates.

The drys have declared their opposition to the Lueck resolution, and assert they will oppose it even though the proposal affords a means of compromise. In his proposed plank to the party platform, Judge Lueck says that the eighteenth amendment was ratified by the legislatures of the several states without submitting it directly to the voters, and expresses the democratic stand as "favoring submission to the people through constitutional conventions in the states of a congressional resolution modifying the eighteenth amendment to the end that the people may have opportunity of voting directly on that question."

Congress is asked to provide for the calling of constitutional conventions in the states.

Women Back Drys

At the opening session of the morning the delegates assembled for conferences by congressional districts to work out local political problems. They then went into general conference to organize for the afternoon convention when a full slate of state officers will be selected and a platform formulated.

The one consideration that is occupying attention of delegates is prohibition and the party attitude on that issue. Women delegates make up a large percentage of the delegations and are standing solidly with the drys while the wet representatives are attempting to work out some means of carrying through a wine and beer plank in the platform.

Can't Agree on Prohibition

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—By The Associated Press.—Leaders of the democratic party in Wisconsin were unable to agree early Tuesday on any definite plan for settlement of the prohibition issue which is dividing the party ranks and went into their state convention believing that two sets of candidates—one wet, and other dry—would be the outcome of the day's deliberations.

Women have given democratic politics a new, complexion. This the men were admitting after hours of conference had failed to show a satisfactory solution of the wet and dry issue which would prove acceptable to both factions on the floor of their convention. The women had given dry advocates within the party a new strength.

May Avoid Definite Dry Plank

It looked to leaders like the party would avoid an expression on the problem except probably a blanket declaration for law enforcement such as given by both factions of the republican party.

The question remained to be settled on the floor, however, what is to develop should the wets have a majority of the delegates and name their candidates. Consideration has been given a proposal that in this event the convention name two sets of candidates both with endorsement of the conference and both assured of party support. Should this plan fail the drys say that they may walk out and have their own conference to select candidates.

Women Protest

A protest meeting of women delegates was held Monday night after they had found themselves excluded from the room in which the state central committee was framing resolutions to be presented to the convention. Various speakers asserted that the men were "cooking up" the conference.

They passed a resolution declaring against any mention of the wet and dry issue in the democratic platform and against any candidate who had expressed himself on the issue.

Another resolution adopted would require representation of women on the state central committee which now is composed solely of men.

Must Rebuild Party

The convention was confronted with the problem of rebuilding the democratic party in Wisconsin which was for 27 years has been out of state office. It is the consideration of this problem that has brought up the prohibition issue as one of paramount importance.

Some members of the party believe that with an appeal for return of

SUSPECT ADMITS SERVING 15 YEARS IN MINNESOTA PRISON

Held Under $2,000 Bail; Passed Checks on Merchants

"THE easiest town I have struck in the country."

That was the way George Willard, alias Thomas Burns, charged with forging and passing bad checks, described La Crosse when arraigned before County Judge Brindley. He pleaded guilty and waived examination and was held to the circuit court under $2,000. Unable to furnish bonds, he was sent to the county jail.

Burns told the court that he had served two terms, totaling 15 years in the Minnesota state prison for forgeries. Burns was arrested at the Milwaukee station by Policeman Routhaupt, as he was about to board a train. Burns had $82 on his person. He is alleged to have passed checks for $30 each on the Krause Clothing company, Peter Newburg Clothing company, Nels Thompson company and the Moss Shoe company, after purchasing merchandise at each of the places. When arraigned he was specifically charged with passing a bad check on the Newburg company.

"It really is a shame to take the money in this town," Burns told Judge Brindley, "it's so easy. All you have to do is to go into the store, buy what you want, offer a check and take the change. The people also are careless about giving blank checks to strangers. I walked into a grocery store here, I don't remember just where it is now because I am not familiar with the streets, and asked the grocer for some blank checks. He said: 'Sure, how many do you want?' and he gave me the blanks. He never saw me before nor I him yet I got the blanks without a moment's hesitation.

"Yes, La Crosse sure was easy picking."

OSCAR MOEN IS HELD TO CIRCUIT COURT OVER A CHECK DEAL

Oscar Moen has been held to circuit court by County Judge Brindley, as the result of a check for $150 that he had cashed at Tillman Bros. store. Moen's bail was set at $2,000 but he was released on his own recognizance. The transaction involving the check are somewhat involved. Moen had $150 due him from a man in Cochrane. The check for $150 was drawn on the State bank and was presented by Tillman Bros. to the State bank. When the bank tried to collect on the check in Cochrane, payment was refused.

FOUR HUNDRED MEMBERS ARE ON THE ROLLS

ENTHUSIASM MARKS LUNCH AND REPORT OF THE TEAMS

Expected to Reach the Thousand Mark in the Membership Campaign

IN THE first two hours of the campaign, 409 members were obtained for the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday morning. Prolonged applause and cheers greeted the announcement as the captains of 21 teams submitted the results of their work at a noon-day luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce.

Splendid co-operation, loyalty and pep marked the work of the committees on the first morning of the drive. The enthusiasm was at fever heat at the luncheon and the workers left with a determination to boost the membership mark to 1,000.

Work Wednesday

The teams will report at the same time Wednesday morning and efforts will be made to cover the field and complete the lists on this second day. A luncheon at the Chamber at noon Wednesday will mark the conclusion of the organized drive. Individual follow-up work will be done for several days, but the teams will complete their task at that time. The public is invited to attend this luncheon.

Dan E. Weigle of St. Paul delivered a snappy talk following the luncheon, complimenting the teams on their splendid work, which he said he had never seen excelled in two hours in any city of this size.

The speaker declared that La Crosse, with its favorable location and exceptional railroad facilities, has a wonderful opportunity to increase its trade, and great strides forward can be taken with the right sort of co-operation manifested among the members of the Chamber of Commerce. This is the organization, he said, which really can make the city grow.

Captains Report

Following is the record of memberships obtained Tuesday morning, with the names of captains of teams:

T. H. Brindley, 8; L. B. Raymond, 15; L. Hirschheimer, 2; John Holley, 28; J. L. Brahmer, 9; P. J. Stone, 16; J. G. Robb, 13; H. O. Williams, 26; Jos. Boshert, 7; G. J. Fries, 19; J. H. TWELVE SALOON MEN SENT TO PRISON BY U. S. JUDGE TODAY

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The E. Klinkert Brewing company, Racine, was fined $21,000, another defendant was fined and twelve others, the majority of whom were saloonkeepers with foreign names, mostly violators of the Volstead act, were sent to prison Tuesday by Federal Judge F. A. Geiger.

The brewing company was charged with a second offense. There were 42 counts in the indictment, which charged manufacture, possession and sale of beer containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol. The company was fined $500 on each count.

Two women pleaded for leniency for their husbands but without avail. "Your appearance does not suggest penury," said the court to one of the women who wore a smart turban and an expensive looking fur.

The minor sentences of fines ranged from $25 to $200 and prison sentences from two to eighteen months.

Fifty Operations Unavailing In Fight To Save War Veterans Bore 20 Bullets In His Body

CATAWISSA, Pa.—Herbert McCarty, 28, a veteran of the 79th division, lost a four-year-fight for life after undergoing nearly fifty operations to overcome wounds he had suffered a few days before the armistice, when his body was riddled by bullets from a machine gun of a German airplane. He had been in hospitals almost continuously since he was wounded.

Twenty-four of his operations were major ones and twenty-four others were classed by surgeons as minor.

Eighteen machine bullets had been taken from his body and he carried two, grown into his jugular vein, to his death. In the operations four ribs had been entirely removed, a portion of one shoulder blade and a collarbone taken out.

His case is said by specialists to be one of the most remarkable in American surgery. Until two months ago he had recovered sufficiently to leave the hospital for short periods.

McCarty had been cited for extreme bravery, his citation stating he was dragging bodies of his comrades back from exposed positions when wounded.

NEEDS OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TOLD BY DAN E. WEIGLE

Inspirational Talk Delivered at Dinner Meeting Monday Night

EDUCATION ONE OF GREATEST THINGS TO BE CONSIDERED

Meeting Marks Opening of the Membership Drive

"LA CROSSE is on trial," said Dan E. Weigle, secretary of the St. Paul Chamber of Commerce, and expert on Chamber of Commerce organization, in his inspirational talk delivered to the members of the local Chamber at the get-to-gether dinner held Monday evening, "and the whole United States is the jury. Every city in the country is watching La Crosse for the next two days, and if your membership drive here is a success, the whole country will know it.

"The Chamber of Commerce movement is not on trial," he said, for it has taken a definite and implacable position in the list of American institutions, but its efforts in this city are being surveyed throughout the land."

The subject of Mr. Weigle's talk was "What can a modern Chamber of Commerce do?" "That ramifications of the modern chamber of commerce are so great," declared the speaker, "that its scope is almost limitless. There is not a phase of civic life that cannot be reached by it. Nature gives opportunity to a city, but the minds of its people is the only factor which can make it great.

Spirit of Civic Pride

"Only by a great co-operative effort on the part of all of the members of a chamber can it be made a success. This effort is needed to arouse in the citizens a spirit of civic pride; to make them boost for their home town.

"To get this spirit" he went on, "it is necessary to pay for it. It must of course, be paid for in dollars and cents, but it must also be paid for in service, and in each individual member giving a part of himself to the work of building up such a spirit."

At this point the speaker gave several examples of towns and cities all over the country where such a spirit had been built up and maintained, in each case making for the betterment and increased prosperity of the town. In passing he mentioned the remarkable results achieved in Hutchinson, Kan. by R. W. Holcombe, the new secretary of the La Crosse chamber who directed the organization and building up of the Chamber of Commerce in the Kansas town.

Education Needed

Mr. Weigle referred to the answers given by the students of the high school to the questionaire sent out by the local chamber of commerce in emphasizing the need of education. Fifty percent of the boys and girls who answered the questions asked are planning for various reasons, many of them well founded to leave town to make their start in life. "What will become of a city if all of its young people leave it?" he asked. "Who will be the future professional and business men of La Crosse? The education given to the children of a city is at the expense of the city, and they should not be allowed to leave the city to benefit another town with the education which they received at home. But they must leave the city if they cannot receive the advantages and opportunities here that are offered in other places."

A spirit of enterprise was given by Mr. Weigle as the third essential to the successful development of a modern Chamber of Commerce. The need for co-operation is great in developing the spirit of enterprise in a city. "'Buy At Home' campaigns, which mean the boosting of your neighbors' goods and ideas help to achieve the desired end. By increasing the value of the town, you increase its prosperity and raise its standard of living making contented and happy citizens. Faith in each other among the citizens of a town is the surest and quickest way to develop it in every way; envy and jealousy are the surest agencies of its destruction."

"The fourth thing needed in a town," he continued, "is a spirit of appreciation. La Crosse is admirably situated geographically, and its citizens should learn to appreciate its

Would Increase Nation's Meat Bill Nearly Four Hundred Million Says Walsh

NO BENEFIT WOULD RESULT TO FARMERS CLAIM OF DEMOCRAT

Declares Tariff Will Not Meet With Success Claimed for it

WASHINGTON.—Duties on fresh meats and meat products proposed in the pending tariff bill, if effective, would increase the nation's meat bill $379,500,000. Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, declared Tuesday in the senate. He was discussing the agricultural schedule and announced that from time to time he would "submit figures" showing what an unbearable burden these duties on agricultural products will be to consumers.

Senator Walsh estimated that the duties on beef and veal would increase prices of those commodities by $231,000,000 a year; Mutton and lamb would advance $31,500,000; pork $105,000,000, and lard by $12,000,000. He said the total would be $8.77 for each man, woman and child in the country or $18.85 for a family of five.

The speaker argued that the proposed tariffs could not result in any benefit to the farmers, for reasons which he outlined as follows:

Won't Benefit Farmer

A tariff upon agricultural products, except in a very limited number of instances, may not have at all the effect of raising the general level of prices to the producer.

"To whatever extent it will raise the price to the producer it will: (a) react in higher cost of living to the people of the country, and (b) react in higher costs of the things the farmer must buy. This was well illustrated during the war. As the prices of agricultural products increased, an increase in price of the things the farmer purchased closely followed and the result was little net advantage to him.

Boost Living Costs

"The wages of labor have been and are becoming more and more dependent upon the cost of living. Increased costs through tariff rates of those things the laboring people of the country must eat means increased wages in the industrial centers of population means that the labor will be scarce and will demand correspondingly higher wages on the farms.

"In those cases where the duties on agricultural products will be most effective in increasing prices, they are levied upon commodities produced in restricted sections by the small percentage of the farmers of the United States. Thus high duties are proposed on lemonds, walnuts, figs and wrapper tobacco, of which the great majority of farmers are consumers rather than producers.

Means Loss To People

"An examination of statistics and well-known information in regard to some of those agricultural articles," the senator continued, "will prove, I believe, beyond question, that this schedule will not meet with the success claimed for it, but will result in very serious losses to the American people as a whole and will impair and injure materially the growing and expanding export business of the country. If this is true then these tariff duties are mere paper duties and will be of no benefit to the farmer.

40 AMERICANS HELD CAPTIVE BY MEXICANS

Ransom of Fifteen Thousand Pesos Demanded by Rebel General; Property Worth Quarter Million Held

STATE DEPARTMENT CALLS UPON AUTHORITIES TO TAKE ACTION

Payment of Ransom Within Forty-eight Hours Demanded by Rebel Chieftain

WASHINGTON.—Forty American employes of the Cortez Oil company near Tampico and destructible property valued at a quarter of a million dollars are being held by a rebel general until ransom of 15,000 pesos is paid, according to a message Tuesday from the American consul at Tampico to the state department.

The dispatch was dated Monday and said that the "rebel general Gorozabe" had seized the company's property and was holding it with 240 well armed men. Prompt instructions were sent by the state department to the embassy in Mexico City and to the consul at Tampico to urge the Mexican authorities to take immediate action for protection of American life and property.

The consul reported that Gorozabe had demanded payment of the 15,000 pesos within forty-eight hours from Monday morning when his forces seized the property. The message said also that there were no federal troops in the vicinity.

Few Details Given

The consul's message contained few details. It said in substance that the Cortez Oil company's Aguada camp was in the hands of the rebel general, Gorozave with 240 well armed men; that Gorozave had demanded payment of 15,000 pesos within forty-eight hours from Monday morning and that he was holding a quarter of a million dollars worth of destructible property and the lives of forty American securities as security. The message added that there were no Mexican forces in the vicinity and that the company had asked for protection for its American employes and property. As the message was dated Monday the time for payment for the 15,000 pesos fixed by the rebel leader probably was due to expire sometime Tuesday.

U. S. Urges Action

The state department sent the following message to embassy at Mexico City, similar instructions going to the consul at Tampico at the same time.

"I urge the appropriate authorities to adopt vigorous measures to extend adequate protection to the life and property of American citizens reported held by the rebel general Gorozave and to punish the perpetrators of this outrage.

Meanwhile the department was still awaiting advices from Mexico as to action taken by the Mexican government to obtain the release of a Bruce Bielaski, captured by bandits and held for ransom not far from Cuernavaca. The embassy has communicated no additional details of Mr. Bielaski's capture since it received the department's instructions to press the Mexican authorities for prompt action in the case.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The senate Tuesday concurred in the house amendment to the army bill authorizing an appropriation of $7,500,000 for new work on the Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, effective next October 1.

Chairman Norris of the agricultural committee, led a fight to refuse to accept the house amendment but was defeated 32 to 28. He wanted the senate to insist on its amendment under which the fund would have become available immediately after the president signed the army bill.

PREDICTS SWEEPING VICTORY AT POLLS FOR THE DEMOCRATS

This is the Year for a Political Housecleaning, Kearney Tells Democratic Conference

REPUBLICANS HAVE RUN STATE CLOSE TO BANKRUPTCY HE SAYS

Outlines Results of 27 Years of Republican "Misrule"

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—By The Associated Press.—This is the year for political house-cleaning in Wisconsin with the democrats sweeping the republican party, which for twenty-seven years has held all state offices, Thomas M. Kearney, temporary chairman of the democratic state conference, told delegates at their gathering here Tuesday.

He declared that the republican party had through its administration, run the state near the verge of bankruptcy.

After outlining the accomplishments of the democratic part during its eight years in control of the national administration, Mr. Kearney told the delegates that they were gathered "because of their pride in the old party of Jefferson, and of the fathers of this republic" to determine upon the means of gaining control of the Wisconsin government.

The twenty-seven years of republican rule in this state, the speaker said, "had brought matters to that pass that the householder is penalized in taxes for owning his home, farmer despoiled of his earning and brought to distress, and the business man obliged to add tremendously to selling prices of all he makes or sells, in order that these indefensible exactions of the republicans which have increased the cost of government in the period of their control from $3,500,000 a year to $11,200,000 may be met, and discharged."

"We are met here," Mr. Kearney declared, "not only as democrats, but as taxpayers to denounce this policy of unbridled extravagance in government, this centralizing of power at the state capitol, this growing and insupportable burden of expense."

Touching indirectly on the prohibition issue, the speaker declared that the democratic party "stands at all times for the enforcement of existing laws," but said that "every law, either constitutional or statutory, is always subject to the will of the people."

"The members of the last legislature practically all of whom were republicans of one of the various varieties, seems to have been particular offenders of the rule that government shall be wisely and economically administered," Mr. Kearney declared.

The governor is quoted as saying that the only way in which he could prevent them from bankrupting the state was by "chloroforming them through the exercise of the veto power."

Senator La Follette was scored by the speaker for what he claimed was an agreement between the senator and Victor Berger of Milwaukee to combine their forces in the coming campaign. The senior Wisconsin senator was described as "the most expensive politician in the United States considering his weight, size and other dimensions."

MAYOR CAN'T ACT AS ATTORNEY FOR MAN ACCUSED OF CRIME

Liable to Disbarment if He Defends Alleged Criminal Rules State Attorney

MADISON, Wis.—Any mayor of a city who attempts to act as an attorney in the defense of an alleged criminal lays himself open to disbarment from practice, J. E. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general, Tuesday informed W. B. Foster, district attorney of Iron county.

The district attorney advised the attorney general that the mayor of Hurley had indicated his intention of defending a person charged with aggravated assault. He inquired whether the mayor, who is a licensed attorney, could legally defend the prisoner.

Mr. Messerschmidt replied that as chief executive officer of the city, the mayor shall take care that the city ordinances and state laws are observed and enforced, and that should he act as attorney for a man charged with a crime, he would be representing conflicting interests.

"I am of the opinion that the mayor of a city cannot act as an attorney for the defendant who is charged with violating an ordinance or state law and that such action would be cause for disbarment," he wrote.

THE SUPREME RULER

EXALT ye the Lord our God, and worship at his footstool, for He is holy.—Psalm 99: 5.

The Super-Six

THE six greatest men in history, according to H. G. Wells, are Jesus, Buddha, Asoka, Aristotle, Roger Bacon and Abraham Lincoln.

The names are familiar to you, with the exception of Asoka. He was a king who reigned in India 2145 years ago. Wells includes him in the super-six list because "He is the only military monarch on record who abandoned warfare after victory."

Roger Bacon was an English philosopher of seven centuries ago, who delved in Black Magic. Most of his greatness is based on myth and supposition.

Aristotle, the Greek philosopher, might be included in the list, though he was not great enough to induce his pupil, Alexander the Great, to refrain from waging vicious wars of conquest.

No two people will agree on a list of the six greatest men in history. Most Americans would exclude Jesus, believing him a divinity instead of a man.

What list do you nominate? In compiling it, keep in mind that real greatness depends on service to humanity.

The most important thing in civilization is the home. And most housewives, after thinking about it, will agree that the most important service to the home was the invention of the cooking stove and its big brother, the heating furnace. No one knows who invented them. But the honor of conceiving the fundamentals of the modern form goes to Benamin Franklin.

Viewed from modern standards, it is probable that several of history's six greatest men are living today. Marconi, inventor of wireless, belongs in the list. We live too close to the crude, pioneering, early stages of his invention to conceive of the tremendous importance it will play in the life of our remote descendants. If people live on Mars or other bodies out in space, they will get in touch with us only by radio. Breaking man's earth-shackles and putting him in touch with far-off space would place the inventor of radio in every list of the great. The Wright brothers, who flew the first airplane and opened the way for man's conquest of the air and distance, are among history's greatest. Einstein also belongs on the list, for he is the forerunner of man's thinking in terms of four dimensions instead of three. And how about Watt, inventor of the steam engine, without which the railroads would not have been built?

At the tip-top of the list should be Gutenberg or the other man, an unknown Chinese, who invented printing from movable type. Nine-tenths of our progress—physical, intellectual and spiritual—is due to printing.

Four Legged Wealth

MRS. WILLIAM C. MUDD, of Yorkshire, England, celebrates her golden wedding by winning another butter-making prize. In the last 40 years, her butter has entered 1888 competitions and "copped off" 477 blue ribbons, gold medals and other prizes. Mrs. Mudd is one of the world's greatest butter makers—so expert and skilled that she was once summoned to display her art before Queen Victoria. Your mind runs from butter to milk, and it occurs to you that childhood and even the whole of civilization would have a mighty tough time of it, without the faithful old cow.

Bossie is one of our forms of original wealth that we take for granted, without pausing to think and analyze. But our ancient ancestors were under no delusion about the value of the cow. If you ever study the origin of languages you will find that "cattle," "chattel" and "capital" all came from the same word back in the days before money, when a man's wealth was measured in the number of cattle he possessed. The accumulation of great fortunes originally began with the domestication of cattle. Primitive man was a rover. He could not take his crudely-tilled land with him, but he could drive off his cattle. Being movable and internationally valuable, it was the real wealth, from the days when the cave man stopped milking the Giant Sloth, so big that its heelbone was 15 inches long, and began taming the wild cattle that roamed the earth.

Milk cows in our country total about 24,000,000—or, roughly, one for each 4½ Americans. They are worth about $50 a head. The faithful old American cow last year produced nearly 99,000,000,000 pounds of milk. It will amaze even many farmers, that the dairy cow gives the nation more wealth than wheat, corn or cotton. Over near Vaudreuil, Quebec, a Holstein cow named Dekal Plus Segis Dixie, recently smashed records by giving, in one year, 32,668 pounds of milk, which yielded 1439 pounds of butter fat. That is nearly eight times as big as the average. The city man forgets Bossie, but the farmer doesn't. Constantly he is striving to improve the breed of cattle—better cows, also better milk and butter and more of it. President Harding has called a conference of dairy experts from all over the world. Bossie deserves such attention, and is entitled to an extra-loud "moo" of pride.

Danger

EVER come close to getting killed by a train? Claim agents, checking up the 229 fatalities in railroad passenger travel during 1920, find that 64 were killed in getting on or off moving and standing-still trains. Eighteen fell from moving trains, 28 fell to death from coach steps, 10 were under guard and jumped to escape. Only 64 were struck by the train or run over. Carelessness is the cause of at least half of all accidents. If curious to check up Conan Doyle's word-pictures of the Hereafter, take chances.

Germany

C. J. WARREN, of the Remington Typewriter Company, scoffs at the general notion that Germany is a vast beehive of industry running full-blast, night and day. After a long inspection visit in Germany, Warren reports that: "While, of course, different industries varied, it seemed to me that the country as a whole was producing about 35 per cent of capacity." That is not a very pleasing report for the international committee of creditors.

Neglected

TOO many parents are shifting the responsibility of caring for their children onto the church, the school and the public authorities. You'll probably agree with that, which is said by Theodore A. Lothrop, of the Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children. Asking what's wrong with American youth is a self-soothing way of passing the buck. There's nothing wrong with American youth. What's really wrong is the parents.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Osborne leave tonight for New York where they will be joined by Mrs. Hiram Goddard. July 2 they will sail for Norway to be absent all summer.

Albert P. Funk, secretary and treasurer of the La Crosse Rubber Mills, is now in Boston, Massachusetts, attending the big meeting of the National Association of Credit Men. He is a delegate from the Milwaukee association of which the local firm is a member.

The record for large fish caught in this vicinity was given a jar Sunday when E. E. Brague and M. Robinson pulled a forty pound fish from Black River. Brague caught the fish on a line and succeeded in pulling it to the top. Robinson then speared the fish and they managed to get it into the boat.

Miss Nellie Gee and Mr. Allen Schraeder were married at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. Lester Gee, Tuesday evening, June 25. Rev. A. V. Ingham officiated.

"Bugs" Weidell, pitcher sent by the Milwaukee Brewers to the La Crosse Outcasts two weeks ago, received orders from Hugh Duffy, who still is owner of his services to start for Columbus, Ga., tonight. Weidell made one of the best records in the Minny league this season.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Commencement exercises were held at the Trinity school last night in St. Leo hall. First honors went to Francis Kriebeck, H. Harnmes, P. Magin and Charles Opitz.

C. S. Van Auken has received the first volume of a series of twelve, containing the census reports of the United States which he will present to the public library. The books are handsomely bound and will be placed in the reference room of the library where the public will have access to them.

An important business change has just been announced. Fred Leithold, the well known local music dealer at 133 South Fourth street, has bought out the entire stock of the Chickering-Chase Brothers' large music store at 325 Main street. Not only does he secure the stock but he also obtains possession of the retiring company's large store and after he makes extensive repairs on the interior of the building he will move his present stock to it from his Fourth street location.

John L. Hay, until recently employed as a candy maker at Smith and Gates, has gone to St. Paul and will go into business for himself.

The street car company disposed of several old horses yesterday and this morning was out after a few younger ones. The wet weather has been very hard on horses on the line, on account of their feet getting soft.

A grand picnic will be held July 4 at Boma's park by the congregation of St. Nicholas church.

John E. McConnell, secretary of the La Crosse Republican League club visited West Salem Saturday night and organized the West Salem Republican League club. O. S. Sisson was elected president.

Dr. Nordstrom of the Phoenix Cure company at Eagle Grove, Iowa, arrived here yesterday and will take immediate charge of the company's sanitarium in North La Crosse.

The Car Between

BY CLARISSA MACKIE

Theresa Lane stepped into Margaret's little office and closed the door. Margaret looked up from the pile of papers on her desk and smiled, even while she hoped that Theresa would not remain very long. There was so much to do, and Theresa was a bit of a gossip.

"Guess the latest," began Theresa, her hand on the doorknob, so that she might make a swift and innocent escape should any of the executive officers appear. "You never can guess!"

"Then you must tell me."

"August Waite has a car—a perfectly gorgeous Matteroon!"

"Fancy!" exclaimed Margaret, with a queer little lump in her throat.

Theresa took out a vanity case and powdered her nose. "They are all saying that you will have the first ride," she said coolly.

"Absurd!" And just then the telephone rang.

"Probably calling you now," gibed Theresa, as she went out. "When you finish talking come and look out of the window and see the Matteroon—looks so funny beside Billy Cook's little car."

Margaret winced as she picked up the receiver, and she frowned as Waite's smooth voice came over the wire. "A new car—wanted her to have a tryout—he would wait for her tonight after 5—a run along the shore road——"

"Why did I accept?" Margaret asked herself, as she hung up the receiver and turned to her work. "Of course there's no harm in taking a little run, only it seems disloyal to Billy—oh, bother, why doesn't he get a decent car instead of bouncing around in that little ark that every one laughs at?"

All the afternoon she kept at her work, her cheeks hot, her eyes bent over the endless columns of figures. Once Waite came in with a sheaf of papers in his hand to ask her some question about the inventory, but he did not mention the car. She was glad of that—she did not like to mingle business with pleasure, yet all the time she was fighting an undercurrent of thought that wanted to overflow her self-control.

"Poor Billy and his little old car—glad enough to ride in that—you thought it was all right until the boys began to make fun of it—remember the ride you took around by the red mill? Remember the sunset? Remember other rides on holidays and Sunday afternoons? Remember Waite's boast that he would have a car that would put Billy's flivver out of the running? Wonder why Billy hasn't dropped in to ask if you were leaving early? Suppose he has seen the new car—where did Waite get the money? He must have quite a bit to pay for a car like that." And so endlessly, on.

Just then the door opened again and Billy stood there, looking very tall and very white and grave. "Are you going early tonight, Margaret?" he asked in a strained voice.

"I'm sorry, Billy—that is, I promised Mr. Waite I'd try a ride in his new car—you understand?"

"Right-o!" he said pleasantly and turned crisply away.

"Billy!" she called after him, but he did not hear.

When 5 o'clock came the old flivver had disappeared and August Waite was standing by the showy Matteroon, his plump form encased in a long tan dust coat and a new tan cap on his round, pinkish head.

"Lo!" he greeted her cheerily. "Isn't this a grand little pushcar?"

"It is beautiful!" cried Margaret, with genuine admiration, for all the fine points of the glistening chariot appealed to her luxury-loving soul. She sank into the softly cushioned seat with a high of satisfaction.

"Comfy?" asked August Waite, with just a thread of tenderness in his voice.

"Very," she replied briefly, and then the car shot forward into the traffic. She saw the smile of satisfaction on his smug little face and she wondered what his thoughts were. If she had really known would she have sat there quietly enjoying the swift speed, the sudden glances of interest that followed their passing? Waite was thinking that with Margaret for his wife, there was no limit to the progress a man such as he might make; she would help professionally as well as socially, and he would be proud to have her at the head of his table. As for that poor fish, Cooke, he was good foil, Jove! there he is now, rattling along in that wretched kerosene can! This was a good opportunity to point him out to Margaret.

Margaret said nothing, for she could not. A sudden longing seized her—she wanted to be with Billy—the little car wasn't so bad, and if one was very, very happy—the car didn't matter!

And she was most unhappy and indifferent now in the gorgeous Matteroon! Worse was coming.

An impudent motor cycle tore alongside, and an indignant voice bellowed from the side car. "Hi—you, Gussie Waite!"

August Waite turned pale, and glanced over his shoulder. He stopped the car with a jerk. "Well?" he asked sharply.

Somebody waved a paper at him—there was a sharp interchange of words which Margaret barely understood; at first she believed the Matteroon and its lucky owner were being held up by bandits who demanded the car; then the real truth burst upon her—August Waite had not paid for the car according to agreement, and it was now under attachment.

"I am sorry, Margaret," he said dully; "you don't want to be mixed up in this, you better get out and take a trolley car home."

"Of course," said Margaret, as he helped her to the ground; "I am so sorry——"

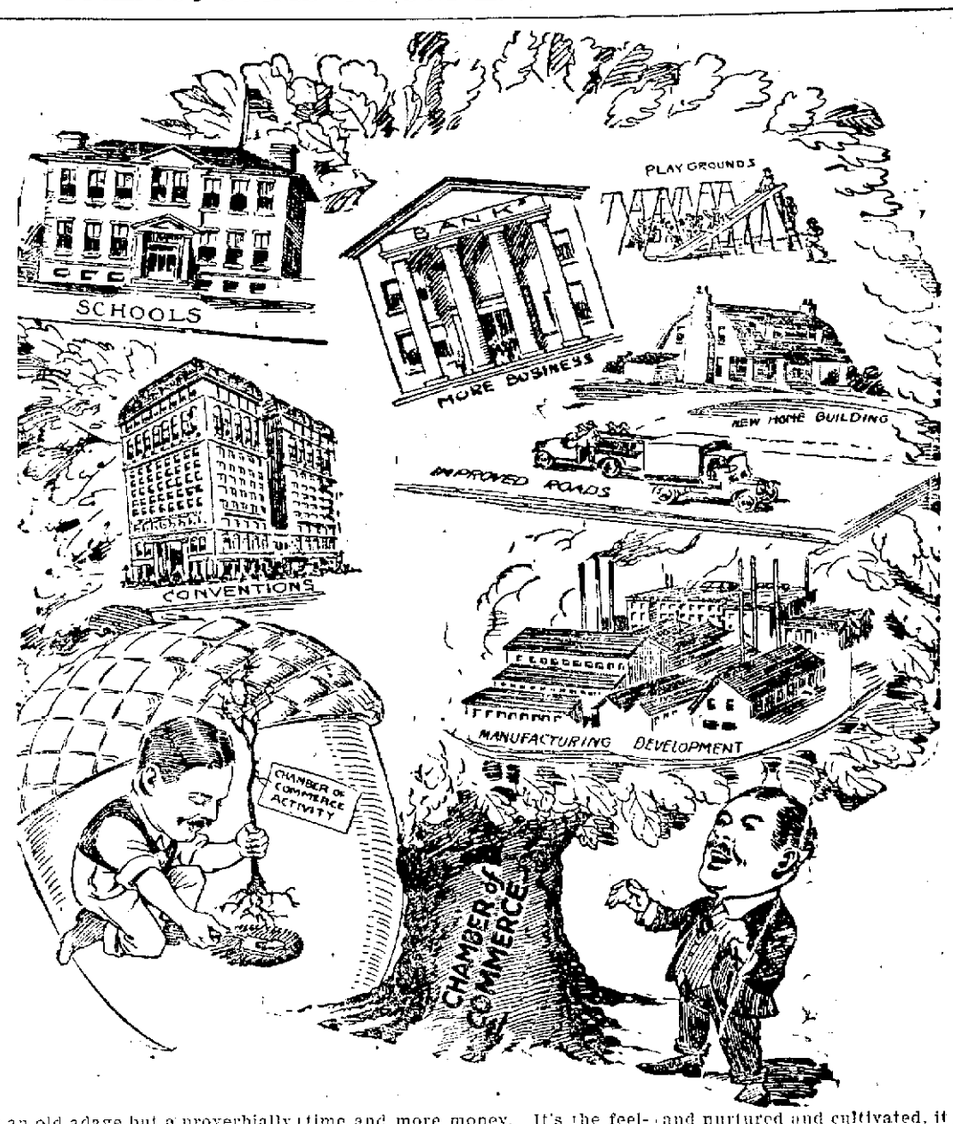

"It's all right," he said gruffly. "I'll soon straighten this out," and he gave a dark glance at the man who climbed into the car with him, and in a moment the brilliant Matteroon had faded out of Margaret's life. The car that had stood between her and her love for a poorer man had gone, and so had Billy Cooke.

She took melancholy comfort in a solitary walk along the Red Mill road—and she was gazing down at the millstream with tear-blurred eyes, when there came a scurry of wheels, a very audacious siren call, and Billy Cooke's voice voice calling:

"Margaret—this little old car just naturally balked when it saw you—wouldn't pass by—are you coming along—sweetheart?" And when the little car sped on its way there were two happy people on the seat and the siren horn giggled boisterously.

GREAT OAKS FROM LITTLE ACORNS GROW

You'll hear many say: "What can I do? Even if I join the Chamber of Commerce movement, I'm too busy to help. I have so many other fish to fry. And besides I never was much for that sort of thing."

The very fact that you do join and do lend your moral support is a great deal. It has an influence on other men who perhaps have more time and more money. It's the feeling that everybody is lending a hand that weighs up aggressively in the community scales.

Some suggestions will be adopted, some plan devised, as a result of your aid. You will think of a scheme or an improvement that the others have missed. Oh, yes, you are important.

It's the spirit that counts most. The Chamber of Commerce in its initial operations, is very much like the proverbial acorn. Once planted and nurtured and cultivated, it grows up and up, and spreads out and out, until it becomes a strong, rugged tree of shelter, under whose protecting branches your town and you and all of your friends widen their industrial and civic activities. It means playground improvements for your children, better schools for them, conventions that benefit the hotels and shops—all of the splendid units of civic advance.

ROLAND LARKIN HIT AT HAGAR STREET, CAR CHIEF ASSERTS

Superintendent Hedges of the Wisconsin Railway, Light & Power company on Tuesday morning informed The Tribune that the street car on which Roland Larkin, 618 Avon street, was a passenger and from which he stepped on Saturday night, only to be struck down by an automobile passing the open gates of the car, stopped at Hagar street, to permit Mr. Larkin to get off. At police headquarters Monday morning it was said that the car stopped at the foot of the north hill to the viaduct, in the middle of the block. Efforts to obtain information from the car barn offices as to just where the street car stopped were unavailing as Mr. Hedges was out of the city, the crew of the car was off duty and office employes said no report of the accident had been made. When Mr. Hedges returned to La Crosse Monday night he investigated the accident and obtained a report.

CLUB WOMEN TOLD HOW TO PREVENT AUTO ACCIDENTS

Instructive Talk Delivered to Women at Chautauqua Meet

SAFETY INSTRUCTION IS NEEDED IN THE SCHOOLS

Cleveland Has Junior Patrols to Aid Safety Work

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y.—"If every club woman in the United States would confer on herself the degree of 'Doctor of Safety' traffic accidents would soon be virtually done away with," said John C. Long, of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, speaking before the General Federation of Women's Clubs here.

"Most accidents on our highways are needless," said the speaker. "The conditions which cause them are preventable. Twenty-eight cities lowered their traffic fatality records in 1921. Detroit and St. Louis nearly halved their previous highway mortality figures. Credit for this decrease belongs to local 'Doctors of Safety' who diagnosed the trouble and then applied strong remedies to bring about convalescence.

"The increase of motor vehicles to the number of 10,000,000 in use today has come about so rapidly that we have been staggered by the traffic problem, and have often been led to handle in a panicky manner a condition which will yield to normal treatment.

"We have passed stringent laws, cried for punishment of the speeder, and demanded that traffic rule violators be put in jail. This is all well enough, but it is not fundamental. Persons who spread disease should be quarantined, but that does not necessarily stamp out the source of the malady.

Causes of Accidents

"Among the causes of traffic accidents are careless driving, children playing in the streets, poor parking accommodations, insufficient playgrounds, bad street lighting, lack of signs, narrow street limits, inadequate police force, unintelligent traffic regulations.

"If a boy or girl in your community is taken ill, the doctor is called in and makes his diagnosis. He decides whether the trouble is croup, or scarlet fever, or what, before attempting to prescribe a remedy. If a child has typhoid fever the whole water supply system of the town may need investigation.

"If a child is injured in an automobile accident, however, some one may be arrested, the police may insist on all motorists carrying special cards, a few more ordinances may be passed but in most communities there will be no exhaustive examination of why that accident occurred.

"If the club women of the United States would confer on themselves the degree of 'Doctor of Safety,' accidents would soon be virtually done away with.

Women Can Help

"Any woman's club can make a safety diagnosis of its own town, and cure the accident evil. Make a map of the city. Place a white pin at every point where a child accident occurred during the past year, and a blue pin for every adult accident on the highway. There you have a basis for determining accident causes;

"Are there many pins concentrated at certain points? Perhaps better lighting, more signs, and more police are needed there. Are most of the pins in the middle of blocks rather than at intersections? Then a campaign to urge crossing at the crossings is needed. Are the child pins prevalent? Then more attention is needed in school instruction, in home training, in local playgrounds.

"Following this anatomy study, which should reveal the worst of the sore spots, should come a study of the police records on accident cases. At what time of day and year did these occur? Special traffic police relief at peak periods might help. What was the apparent immediate cause of the accident? If speeding and carelessness are coming more in evidence, a campaign on public opinion on the part of the mother would be of great assistance in law enforcement.

"This diagnosis of the anatomy and the records is but the beginning of the task, but it is a beginning which has been largely overlooked.

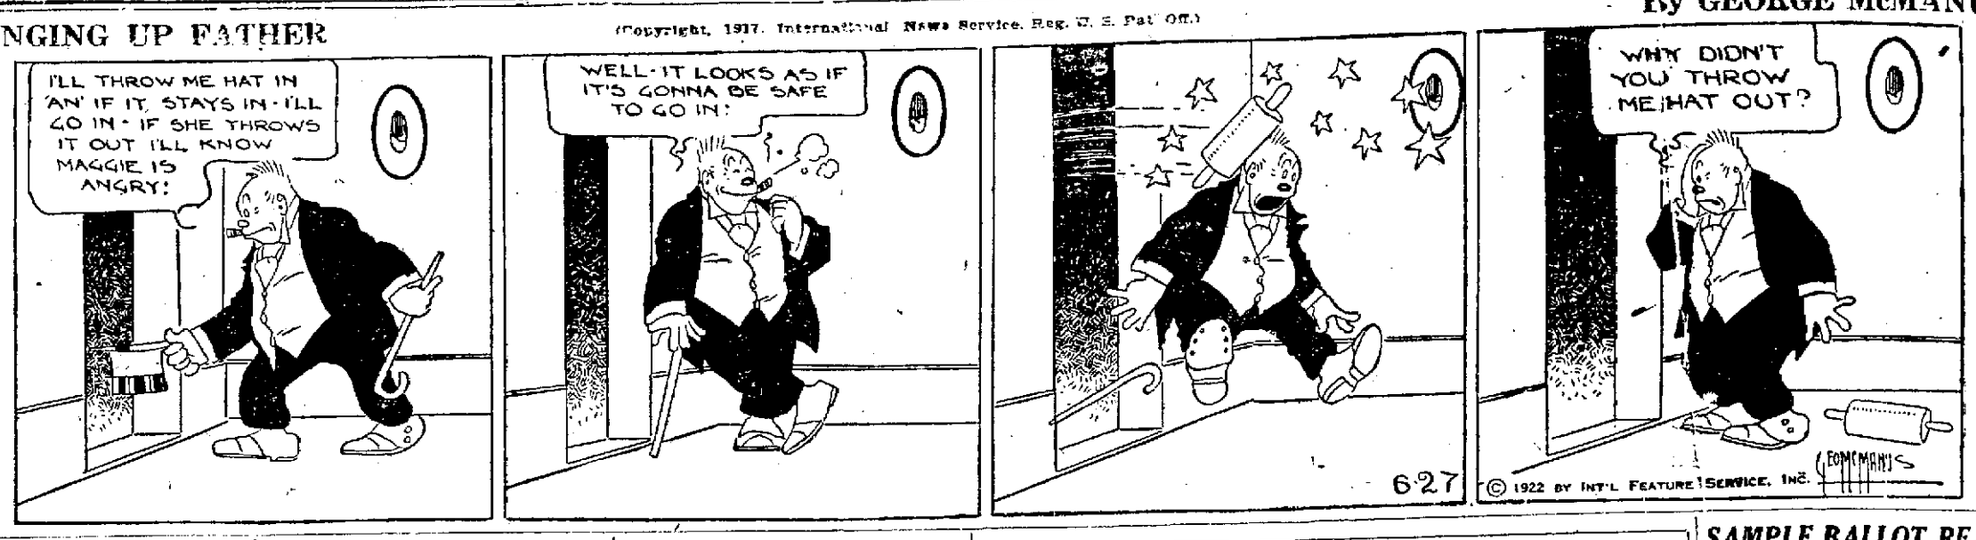

Safety Instructions

"For the remedies one may turn to Detroit which has large playgrounds, and elaborate safety instruction in the schools; to Cleveland which has junior patrols to aid the young and the helpless in crossing the street, to Buffalo, to Indianapolis, and to other cities on the Safety Honor Roll of 1921, where the local schools and associations will be able to tell what methods are being used to make their highways more safe.

"Among the other leading cities which recorded fewer traffic fatalities in 1921 than in 1920 are: Akron Ohio; Atlanta, Ga.; Bayonne, N. Y.; Berkeley, Calif.; Bridgeport, Conn.; Cincinnati, Ohio; Dayton, Ohio; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Lansing, Mich.; Milwaukee, Wis; Minneapolis, Minn; Newark, N. J.; New Rochelle, N. Y.; Norfolk, Va.; Ogden, Utah; Paterson, N. J.; Peoria, Ill.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Pittsfield, Mass.; Providence, R. I.; Richmond, Calif.; Trenton, N. J.; and Youngstown, Ohio."

BRINGING UP FATHER

By GEORGE McMANUS

WILD ANIMAL CIRCUS COMING ON WEDNESDAY

When a big circus using three rings and stages is billed to appear the plaint is often heard that it is impossible to see all that is on when seated at one end of the big tent and it engenders the feeling that much that would be good to see is being missed.

This may be true, where the management of a big show mixes all sorts of acts together in a crazy concoction, but "Patterson's Trained Wild Animal Circus" which will exhibit in La Crosse June 28, afternoon and evening, although one of America's largest amusement institutions, offers no ground for such a compaint.

The circus program with this organization is made up of what is termed "Displays." A display is a series of acts given simultaneously in the rings, on the stages, in the cages, in the air, on the hippodrome, instead of the display being composed of several diverse acts, as is often the case in circuses. Patterson's Trained Wild Animal Circus displays are made up of acts of the same kind. For instance if a male or female equestrian act is being given in ring No. 1 the very same kind of feature will be found in the other two rings. If a group of aerialists appear at one end of the great tent, other groups will be presented simultaneously at different points. If a group of lions are being worked in a cage at one end of the tent, a group of tigers will be working at the other end of the canvas. Thus it is possible for all spectators, no matter where seated, to witness practically the same acts at the same time, the only difference being in the individuals employed in their presentation.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Mo.—A coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide in the case of Della Nolte, 17, who shot her father. It was testified that the girl shot to protect her mother from a beating.

A COMMON SENSE VIEWPOINT

Lincoln, the Great American, was, above all, a man of clear and far reaching vision. He had the wonderful faculty of assimilating facts and altering undebatable statements regarding them. No statement of his contained more accuracy than that in which he said "A house divided against itself cannot stand." The torriders of time will echo and re-echo the truth of that statement. We can well paraphrase this remark of Abraham Lincoln for the purpose of localizing the sentiment. A community divided against itself cannot stand. To insure steady growth and progress, there must be unity of purpose and action. Between unity and disintegration, there is no middle ground. In matters of civic progress, we either are firmly united or loosely separated. Every community is bound to fail in grasping some of its opportunities. However, there is no excuse for a community to repeatedly fall by the wayside in many fundamentals of progress, some of which are loyalty, strength of purpose, enthusiasm, a profound belief in the possibilities of the "home town," a willingness to work quietly out of range of the spotlight of publicity if necessary, to lay aside personal and petty objections in the best interests of the whole community, to support local projects, insofar as personal assets will allow, by unselfish service, to inspire others to do likewise.

There are people in La Crosse working night and day putting "unity" into "community." The desire for a better city in which to live is slowly, but surely becoming the dominating one. It is not wise to stand around and call the obstructionist names. Time is precious. The march is forward. The goal is sure. La Crosse as a whole is worth infinitely more than all the knockers that have ever pursued their nefarious calling. While the obstructionist obstructs, and the knocker knocks, let those who believe in a better city, work incessantly to bring about.

This may be high-sounding idealism, but in reality, it is just plain common sense, and nothing more than that which is expected from those who would have Lincoln's vision.

SAMPLE BALLOT READY FOR DISTRIBUTION BY SECRETARY OF STATE

Seventeen officers are to be selected by the Wisconsin voters this fall, the ballot shows. These officers are listed on four party ballots, each of which is twenty inches long. The democratic, republican, socialist and prohibition parties are represented, the socialist-labor organization having failed to file its papers in time to be listed as a party at this year's election.

The officers listed on the ballot to be voted for by the electorate are governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, attorney general, U. S. senator, representative in congress, state senator, member of the assembly, county clerk, county treasurer, sheriff, coroner, clerk of the circuit court, district attorney, register of deeds and surveyor.

Good Felt—The Foundation Of Good Roofing

On the quality of felt used in asphalt roofing depends its life; as surely as the security of a house depends on the strength of its foundation.

Flex-a-Tile Roofing is built around a base of Richardson felt—uniform in quality and even in texture. Since 1868 The Richardson Company has specialized in the manufacture of fine roofing felt.

This fabric is asphalt-saturated, then perfectly waterproofed by a thick coating of scientifically tempered natural asphalt on both sides.

FLEX-A-TILE HOUSE TOPS

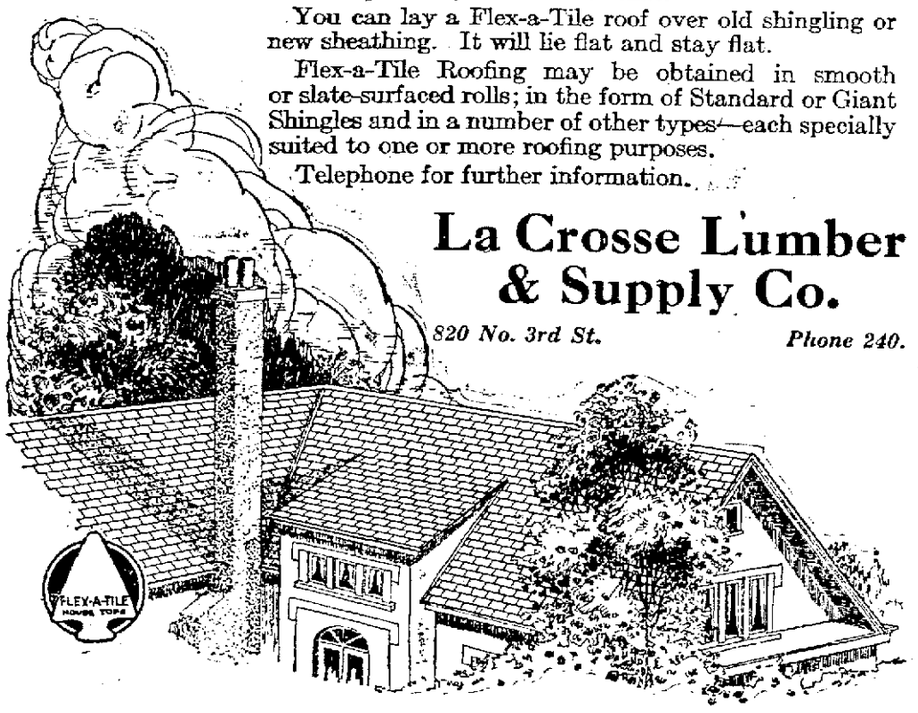

When you buy Flex-a-Tile Roofing you buy strength, long life, weather-proof shelter and the beauty demanded for the roof you call "home."

And you'll find that Flex-a-Tile runs the same "all the way through," in a single unit or a car-load lot. It is manufactured to gauge, without hidden flaws. Richardson methods at every step, from raw rags to the finished product, take care of that.

You can lay a Flex-a-Tile roof over old shingling or new sheathing. It will lie flat and stay flat.

The correct answer to Mr. Edison's question:

"What is Grape-Nuts made of?"

Answered by the makers of Grape-Nuts

THIS is one of a number of questions which Mr. Edison is putting to applicants for an important position in his organization. We are happy to learn the interest shown in the food, Grape-Nuts, by a man of such broad attainments as Mr. Edison.

There has never been any secret about what Grape-Nuts is made of. It has been on the market for 24 years, and practically everybody knows its composition.

But inasmuch as such a simple, everyday question as "When did Columbus discover America?" is often incorrectly answered, it may be well to take this opportunity to restate the following facts about Grape-Nuts:

Grape-Nuts is a highly nourishing cereal food, made from a mixture of whole wheat flour, malted barley, salt and water. The mixture is raised by yeast, baked in loaves, then sliced, further baked, and then crushed into granules.

No food in the world is so thoroughly baked as Grape-Nuts. More than 20 hours are consumed in the various baking processes.

As every diet expert knows, this long baking brings about conversion of the carbohydrate elements, developing dextrin, maltose and dextrose or grape-sugar—a form of sugar to which all starch elements must be changed before they can be assimilated by the system.

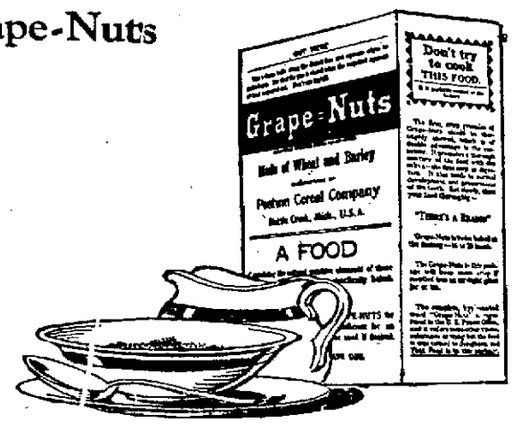

Grape-Nuts when eaten does not form a pasty mass difficult to digest—the 20-hours baking makes this delicious food easily digested by even those with the most delicate stomachs; and the character of the food requires thorough mastication.

Grape-Nuts is a well-balanced food for building bone, tooth and nerve structure. When combined with cream or milk, it is admittedly a complete food.

You will find Grape-Nuts everywhere. At your grocer's, your club, your hotel, your restaurant.

EXPRESS FEARS FOR SAFETY OF WOUNDED MEN IN HOSPITALS

Sneed, However, Assures Authorities Non-Union Men Will be Allowed to Leave Herrin

SPECULATE AS TO WHEREABOUTS OF NINETEEN MISSING MEN

Sixty-six in Bunk Cars When Attack Was Made Says Findlay

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—By The Associated Press. — Assurance that safe conduct out of the county of Williamson will be given any wounded strikebreaker or guard in the Herrin hospital, was conveyed to Adjutant General C. E. Black by Senator W. J. Sneed of Herrin, upon his arrival here Tuesday morning to attend the constitutional convention.

"There is nothing to the reported fear that another outbreak is imminent," Speaker Sneed said. "Wounded men can leave the hospital as soon as they are able without the least danger of molestation."

Fear Danger to Wounded

HERRIN, Ill.—By The Associated Press.— Removal to safety out of "Bloody" Williamson county, and the southern Illinois coal fields, of wounded nonunion men now in the hospital, is one of the problems coming in the wake of last Thursday's mine massacre.

Twelve wounded survivors of the forty-seven guards and workers who were sent on the "death march" out of the Lester strip mine, still are in danger, according to information reaching state and federal investigators.

Lying on their hospital cots, their wounds swathed in bandages, some of the wounded sensed that they still were in danger and expressed fear of further violence if they leave the hospital unprotected.

Herrin's law respecting citizenry believes a body of state troops would solve the problem and dispel any further danger to the imported guards and workers from the wrath of striking miners.

Nineteen Still Missing

Herrin was speculating on the fate of nineteen missing men who completed the gang of sixty-six in the bunk cars Wednesday night. Allen P. Findlay of Chicago, timekeeper, who is in the hospital with forty buckshot in his side and a bullet in his foot, is authority for the statement that there were sixty-six men in the cars when the attack was made. Whether the missing nineteen escaped or were killed in the cars and burned when attackers fired the train was still unknown Tuesday.

Angered because their town has been blamed for the atrocities, Herrin citizens say Johnson, Ziegler and other mining towns should bear part of the responsibility because many of the rioters came from other towns to join the riot mob which stormed the Lester mine.

Sheriff Thaxton said he had been unable to get any information leading to the identity of any member of the mob.

Mother Claims Body

One of the sixteen unidentified dead buried in Potter's field last Sunday, was claimed Tuesday.

Mrs. Mable Jacobs of York, Pa., identified the undertaker's description of No. 16 as that of her son, Lawrence Jacobs, a steamshovel operator.

The body was disinterred Tuesday morning and will be taken to York for burial.

Value of Traffic Bureau

The great value of the traffic department of a chamber of commerce was touched upon briefly by Mr. Weigle, who said that since the shipping rates into a town had a direct bearing on the price of articles sold in the town, too great attention could not be paid to this phase of the chamber's activity.

In closing Mr. Weigle said, "What the chamber needs is a membership composed of men who are looking not to see what they can get out of the Chamber of Commerce, but what they can be put into it. If sufficient men of that type are found, the chamber will make a name for itself that will be known all over the country, and its possibilities for service will be limitless."

Membership Drive On

The dinner Monday night opened the membership drive of the local Chamber of Commerce. Teams were formed, each under the leadership of a captain, and the next two days will be devoted to the drive for new members and the renewal of old memberships. The mark set by the membership committee is a thousand names by Wednesday night.

RATHENAU MURDER BLOW AT REPUBLIC CLAIMS ERZBERGER

Nation Robbed of One of its Most Loyal Patriots Says President in Eulogy

WORKERS LEAVE POSTS FOR DAY AS PROTEST AGAINST SLAYING

Funeral Services for Statesman Held in Reichstag Building

BERLIN.—By The Associated Press. —The assassins who killed Dr. Walter Rathenau, Germany's foreign minister, were striking at the republican government of Germany and its people, declared President Ebert at Dr. Rathenau's funeral in the reichstag chamber Tuesday in eulogizing the dead statesman.

"The bullet which struck down Rathenau was aimed at the German republic," said the president. "It robbed the nation of one of her most loyal patriots, one of the ablest champions of German rejuvenation. This murder is a crime against our industrious, suffering, hopeful people."

From the former imperial box, on the seat the ex-kaiser was wont to occupy on state occasions, Frau Emil Rathenau, widowed mother of the dead minister, heard the oration of the president and the addresses of other leaders in German public life who praised the character and achievement of her murdered son. Around her sat the members of the diplomatic corps, resplendent in full regalia, among them Alanson B. Houghton, the American ambassador who provided the sole exception so far as simplicity in attire and absence of decorations were concerned.

On the floor of the house sat the reichstag deputies and as many of the government officials as could be accommodated there. President Ebert sat with the cabinet at the government bench. The coffin rested on the spot usually occupied by the president's desk. It bore two simple wreaths, one from Frau Rathenau and the other from the late statesman's sister Edith.

The vicinity of the reichstag building was crowded with masses of workers observing the day's abstention from labor decided upon in protest against the crime. The prohibited zone near the building was heavily patrolled. Up to the early afternoon no disturbances had developed.

wine and beer, the party can carry its candidates into office, while others assert that such a program would only tend to undermine the stability of the party organization.

Thomas M. Kearney of Racine, called the convention to order at ten o'clock to set under way consideration of the issues that have arisen. Organization of the conference is expected to take up the morning session, which will then be adjourned until two o'clock this afternoon.

Numerous candidacies were being mentioned today for United States senator and for governor. Among those named as possible senatorial selections are:

Prospective Candidates

James Clancy, Stoughton; Thomas M. Kearney, Racine; Henry C. Mochlenpah, Clinton; Martin Lenck Juneau; John C. Karel, Milwaukee, and Karl Mathie, Wausau.

There has been little mention of possible candidates for the other positions on the ticket. Chief interest centers in the fight for governor because of its effect on state conditions.

Following the address of Chairman Kearney, committees on resolutions and permanent organizations were appointed. Each congressional district named a committeeman with the chairman appointed by the presiding officer of the convention.

Committees Named

On the committee on resolutions are Judge Martin L. Lueck, Juneau, chairman; Calvin Stewart, Kenosha; Mrs. E. R. Bowler, Sheboygan; J. M. Clancy, Stoughton; John N. Donnelly Milwaukee; Thomas F. Konop, Milwaukee; L. P. Fox, Calumet county; A. A. Bentley, La Crosse; J. P. Pfiffner, Eighth district; James F. Hughes Brown county; John B. Fleming, Eau Claire, and Willis B. Silvertorna, Hayward.

On the committee on permanent organization are: Joseph Martin Green Bay, chairman; Charles Freeman, Racine; Edward Schultz, Jefferson; J. P. Evans, Prairie du Chien; F. J. Rowan, Milwaukee; Mrs. Maude Kennan, Milwaukee; Mrs. Alice Steiner, Calumet; H. W. Jefferson, Sparta; Carl A. Schmidt, Wausau; A. M. McDonald, Outagamie county; Sidney J. Baker, Augusta; Fred Russell, Superior.

The convention recessed until 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

PHILIP CAUGHT ON

Philip was slow in his studies, due to the fact he did not apply himself, but spent most of his time playing. His aunt was at the house one day, and was telling about the little cousins—how well they were getting along in school, music, etc. Philip took it all in, and as she was leaving, he said: "Much obliged, auntie, for trying to put a little ambition in me."

HIRSCHUBER BOYS HELD AS RESULT OF 'RIOT' AT STODDARD

William and Joseph Hirschuber Examined at Viroqua; Held for Circuit Court

William and Joseph Hirschuber, brothers, have been held under $500 bail each for circuit court at a hearing in Viroqua, as a result of the near-riot and jail delivery at Stoddard on Saturday night, June 3. Hartwell & Brody of La Crosse, defended the brothers at the examination conducted before Judge Mahoney by District Attorney Charles Heinz of Vernon county.

William Hirschuber was charged with rioting and aiding in the liberation of prisoners. Joseph was charged with illegal possession of liquor. State's witnesses testified that William Hirschuber came down the main street of Stoddard about 50 feet ahead of a mob and that Mayor Charles White struck him with a club. This was after Lou Talley and a man named Brooks had been arrested and put in the steel cage in the village hoosgow. The mob, it was said, approached the mayor and marshals as they were leading Joseph Hirschuber to the lock-up. Mayor White testified that he was first struck by rocks hurled by the mob and that he hit William after William had struck him. Joseph finally was locked in the cage and then William was thrust into the lock-up, but not in the cage.

William later kicked open the door and when seen on the main street was again arrested. The second time he was put in the cage. Then a mysterious thing happened. The jail was assaulted, the lock on the cage sawed off and the four prisoners liberated. At the hearing the lock was discovered in the possession of the district attorney. It had been a mystery what happened to the lock. It still, apparently, is a mystery what did actually happen to the lock after it had been sawed off.

It also was brought out that the mayor had a scuffle with one of the women in Talley's car, after the arrest had been made. She was from La Crosse but her name was not revealed at the hearing.

The testimony also showed that there was quite a mobilization of police in the village that Saturday night. Undersheriff Rogers of Viroqua and three deputy sheriffs from De Soto were present as well as the regular marshal and two deputy marshals. The deputy sheriffs and undersheriff took no part in the arrests.

Joseph Hirschuber, it was said, was arrested when a deputy marshal saw him extract a bottle, alleged to contain moonshine, from under a woodpile in the town.

EVEN THEN

And it came to pass that a stranger, entering the gates of Jerusalem, saw gathered there before the palace of Solomon the King a multitude of women, who spoke not but held their peace, yea, silently and with much shooshing with their finger tips to their lips did they hold their peace.

So he accosted a wayfarer and asked of him: "Say, buddy, what's all that jam of women lined up in front of Sol's place for? Suffrage pee-rade or something?"

And the wayfarer answered and said: "No chance, guy. That's the king's wives waitin' for him to drop sleep so's they can go through his clothes."—American Legion Weekly.

His Debut

"Jobson created quite a sensation when he made his first appearance on the stage."

"What was his part?"

"The Ghost, in Hamlet. He appeared five minutes ahead of schedule, and the effect on Hamlet was said to be very fine."—American Legion Weekly.

TEAMSTER FINED; HAD 16 CASES OF HOME BREW ON RIG

Ed Voves, a teamster, charged with the transportation of 16 cases of home brew from a south side "home brewery" to a saloon, was fined $250 by County Judge Brindley. Voves was given the option of a fine or four months in the county jail. He didn't have the money in his jeans at the time so the court allowed him a day or two grace in order to round up the amount of the fine. The court also ordered that the home-brew be destroyed. The beer is in the custody of the police and will be destroyed by them.

BEGGARS' TRADE UNION ORGANIZED IN BERLIN SUBURB

Establish School in Which is Taught the Art of Begging and "Make-up"

Although public mendicancy is forbidden by law, the streets of Berlin are full of beggars who, especially after dusk, importune passersby with harrowing tales, some of which may be true.

Mutilated war victims, who exhibit genuine scars on the sidewalk, are always sure of public charity, but many others of the fraternity resort to more less transparent tricks to excite compassion. They have established a trade union" in a northern suburb where, according to reports, about 150 learners are being trained in the art of begging, including "making up."

The theoretical part of this course alone takes 6 weeks, and is followed by a practical course at race meetings and at doors of churches, theaters and cafes.

The city is divided into districts by the "union" which places a certain number of certified pupils in charge, changes shifts weekly, and collects and distributes the proceeds.

Every day, it is stated, an average west-end district brings in about 3,000 marks. Certain favorite sections command premiums up to 500 marks per day.

These professional beggars are keen judges of human nature. Wealthy Russians are said to be best patrons. Americans, on the other hand, are an everlasting puzzle to them. Sometimes, they say, Americans are extremely generous and hand out five, ten or twenty mark bills with princely liberality, but others refuse to give anything.

IMPERIAL COURT IN MOURNING FOR JAPANESE ADMIRAL

Reception for U. S. Navy Secretary and Annapolis Alumni are Ordered Cancelled

TOKIO.—By The Associated Press. —The imperial court of Japan is in mourning for Prince Yorihito Higashi-Fushimi, who died Monday of influenza. Consequently the receptions and other events planned for Secretary of the Navy Daniels and officers of the American navy, now enroute here to attend a reunion of the Annapolis class of 1881, will be cancelled or curtailed.

Prince Higashi-Fushimi, the seventeenth son of the late Prince Kuni Iye, served some thirty years in the Japanese navy, attaining the rank of full admiral in 1917. He contracted influenza last November and the court ceremonies incident to the visit of the prince of Wales proved a heavy drain on his weakened constitution. The prince was 55 years old.

"BITS OF LIFE" PROVES HIT ON MAJESTIC SCREEN

"Bits of Life," the Marshall Neilan production, which opened an engagement at the Majestic yesterday, sets a new milestone of progress in the silent dramatic art.

It is likewise a triumph in acting as well as conception and direction.

The outstanding merit, however, is in the new idea which Marshall Neilan has worked into motion picture making. In "Bits of Life" he has utilized the efforts of four noted writers and made one mighty interesting offering of it. The stories, blended into episodes.

Melodrama, comedy, satire and romance are cleverly fitted together to provide an entertainment which is full with interest from beginning to end.

UNUSUAL SCENE MAKES "THE OATH" REMARKABLE

"The Oath," which opens at the LaCrosse today for a two days' showing, contains a scene which has been termed by critics as being the most remarkable that has ever been produced on the screen. A series of fast moving circumstances finds the character Black Curran in a situation in which the conviction for murder is absolutely certain unless he breaks an oath given to his wife when he had recently married. But there is another man whom he has loved. Although love has been given to his dear friend she makes the greatest sacrifice a woman can make to save him from the gallows and, besides, Miriam Cooper heads the capable cast with Conway Tearle, the story and scenario are by Conway Tearle, Clive and Anna Q. Nilsson.

"THE BIGAMIST" SHOWING AT THE CASINO TODAY

The dangers of a bigamous marriage to both husband and wife are vividly set forth in "The Bigamist" starring Ivy Duke, pronounced a subtle, keen and polite picture that is now being screened at the Casino Theatre.

"The Bigamist" unfolds a story of unusual dramatic power. Adapted from the famous novel of the same name which was written by E. P. Ellis Young, it relates the experiences of a beautiful young wife with two children, whose contentment in her home with is suddenly shattered by a letter that the husband and father is a bigamist.

The letter, signed by the other wife, pro[illegible] the end. The scenes which follow are big with the tragedy of broken happiness.

STRAND TODAY

"Reckless Youth," announced as a favorite at the Strand today affords real motion picture devotees another opportunity to see in action a team of selected screen artists. In which the several peddle have lately acquired a unusual interest, Elaine Hammerstein is the star of the production but of almost equal interest is the work of Nigel Webb. Miss Hammerstein's ability has long been established. Continued search for a vehicle most exactly suited to her talents was made until Nigel Webb was secured.

"MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME" IS OF BIG HUMAN INTEREST

"My Old Kentucky Home," at the Rivoli Today is one of the most interesting pictures we have seen this season. It contains more real human interest than a dozen other pictures that have been shown here and carries a very good lesson as well.

CAPTAIN AMUNDSEN TO BE GIVEN BIG SEND-OFF AT NOME

NOME, Alaska.—A big farewell reception is being planned here for Captain Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian Polar explorer, before he starts on the first lap of his effort to fly across the North Polar capital.

He will leave in a couple of days to go to Teller, half way between Nome and Cape Wales, where he will make a change in the Maud's propellers, substituting a two bladed ice propeller for that which drove the ship north from Seattle.

The Wrong Bottle

A little boy startled his mother by asking, "Mamma, is there hair oil in this bottle?"

"Mercy, no, dear!" she exclaimed. "That's mucilage."

"Oh!" said the child. "Then, after a short silence, "Perhaps that's why I can't get my hat off."—Sovereign Visitor.

LEONARD FOULS -- LOSES CROWN

NEW YORK.—Benny Leonard, the second lightweight champion in twenty-seven years to attempt the lifting of the welterweight title, failed Monday night when after being outpointed for twelve rounds, he fouled Jack Britton, the 37-year old champion, and was disqualified.

Two minutes and forty seconds of the thirteenth round had passed when Leonard struck Britton while the latter was on one knee taking a count. Britton had gone to his knee wincing as if in pain and motioned to his seconds to claim a foul. At this juncture Leonard walked around Referee Haley and struck Britton in the body with a left.

Haley said he had not seen a low blow struck when Britton went to his knee, but disqualified Leonard for violation of the rule prohibiting the striking of an opponent while he is kneeling.

Britton had all the better of the contest last night and it was evident that he would have won the judge's decision had the contest gone the limit of 15 rounds.

FIRST ROUND—They are off now. The two men danced around considerably. Leonard shot light left to the head and Britton missed short right to the face. Both men exchanged lefts to the face. Both men exchanged lefts to the head. Benny hooked left to stomach and brought same hand up to Jack's face. They ran into a clinch. Leonard hooked sharp left to Jack's stomach and crossed him with a right to the chin. Jack responded with a left to Benny's face and repeated the dose on the next lead. They were sparring at long range at the bell.

SECOND ROUND—Bennie led to the face with short left. Britton hooked a left to the wind, and then jabbed the lightweight champion with light left to face. Leonard sent straight left to Britton's mouth. Britton ripped a hard right swing to Leonard's ear and then ripped a straight left to Benny's mouth. Jack sent another straight left to Leonard's stomach and repeated the dose. Leonard sent two lefts to Britton's face. Leonard staggered Britton with a sharp right hang left to the chin just as the bell ended the round.

ROUND THREE—Both men sparred for an opening. Leonard was the first to lead and landed four lefts to Jack's face without a return. Britton then sunk a short left hook to Bennie's stomach. Bennie shot two more lefts to Jack's face and Jack crossed him with right to ear and two lefts to the heart. Britton crowded Leonard into a neutral corner without any damage. Britton hit two lefts to Leonard's wind and crossed him with a right to the body and was kidding the lightweight champion. They rushed into a clinch and Bennie uppercut Britton to the chin.

FOURTH ROUND—They rushed into a clinch at the outset. Bennie snapped a hard right to Jack's chin, then shot two lefts to Britton's face. Jack missed a right to the head. Britton sent a straight left to Bennie's face and then ripped a right uppercut to the stomach. Coming out of a clinch, Britton rapped Bennie hard with a right hand smash to the face and was cautioned by the referee. Britton rushed Leonard, landing some hard body blows on the lightweight champ. Leonard missed a vicious left hand swing to the head. Britton rounded a hard right to Bennie's ear at the bell.

FIFTH ROUND—They fiddled around for a few moments, Leonard landing two lefts to Jack's face, then Bennie shot a straight punch to Jack's wind. Leonard nearly upset Jack, coming out of a break and apologized. Britton rushed Bennie to the ropes, getting in some body blows, but Leonard came back and repaid Britton with a left to the stomach and right to the head. Leonard sunk a right into the stomach and Britton crossed a right to the face. Bennie smashed Jack with a hard right to the chin. They both exchanged lefts to the face. Both swapped rights to the head and Leonard forced Britton to the ropes.

EIGHTH ROUND—Britton rushed Leonard around the ring, landing a right swing back of Leonard's ear. Britton had the better of two sharp scrimmages in close. The welterweight missed a hard right try for Leonard's head. Britton appeared stronger than Leonard at this stage and repeatedly forced Leonard to back ground. Britton hooked a left to Bennie's head and then sent a right to Leonard's face. They both sent right hand smashes to the wind as the round ended.

NINTH ROUND—Leonard shot two lefts to Britton's face. Leonard forced Britton to the ropes, smashing him repeatedly with rights and lefts to the body. Britton came back strong, landing a hard straight right to Leonard's face. They both exchanged rights. Jack sent two straight lefts to Leonard's face and then varied his attack by driving two straight rights to Leonard's mouth. Leonard was badly flustered as Jack backed him into a neutral corner and pasted him with short hooks to the body. Leonard turned Britton around with long sweeping right to the chin just at the bell.

TENTH ROUND—Britton rapped Bennie with a hard right to the head and when Bennie missed a left lead Jack repeated the performance. Leonard hooked two hard lefts to Britton's face, staggering the veteran for a moment. Bennie shuffled in once more and rapped Jack on the chin with a hard right, but Britton appeared too strong. Britton staggered Leonard with short right to the head. Britton shot a hard right to the jaw as the round ended.

ELEVENTH ROUND—They clinch. Leonard ripped two strong lefts to the veteran's face and repeated the dose. Britton is swinging wild. Bennie shot two rights to Britton's mouth, sending the latter back on the ropes. Leonard sent a series of lefts and rights to the jaw. Leonard is fighting furiously and has the old timer much puzzled. Leonard again staggered Britton with a right back of the ear. The whole tide of the battle changed at this point and Leonard rapped Britton all over the ring, while the crowd was in an uproar.

TWELFTH ROUND—Leonard jabbed Britton twice with lefts to the face while the latter missed a right hand try for the head. They both exchanged rights to the face. Britton sent a hard right smash to Bennie's head and forced Bennie to the ropes. Jack hooked a right uppercut to Leonard's heart and followed it with a right hang smash to Bennie's ear. Jack followed this up with another right to Bennie's head. Leonard sent a right hand punch to Britton's face at the bell.

ROUND THIRTEEN—They exchanged lefts to the face. Britton was a little short with a right swing. In a mixup Leonard fell on his haunches as he shoved him with his left hand while trying to break. Britton staggered Leonard with a short hook to the chin and Bennie appeared to be much worried. Britton slipped to his knee, and while in that position Leonard struck him with right and left hand smashes to the jaw. Britton protested and Referee Patsy Haley immediately disqualified Leonard and declared Britton the winner.

PHILS LEAVE CELLAR; WALLOP BRAVES, 9-5

Keck, Recruit, Holds Cards Safe; Reds Win, 7 to 4

CHICAGO.—Chicago came from behind and, playing an uphill battle, hit opportunely behind bases on balls and erratic fielding on the part of the visitors and defeated Pittsburg, 6 to 4, in the first game of the series. Stueland pitched in fine form, experiencing only one bad inning, when the Pirates touched him for four hits, which, with two errors, gave them the lead. Score:

Pittsburg ..... 000 300 010—4
Chicago ..... 010 110 21x—6

Batteries: Morrison and Gooch; Stueland and O'Farrell.

Phils 9; Braves 5

PHILADELPHIA.—Philadelphia climbed out of last place on Monday, taking its fifth straight victory from Boston, 9 to 5. The locals obtained a big lead in the early innings, when they drove Miller from the mound. Ring was effective in the pinches. Score:

Boston ..... 100 101 200—5
Philadelphia ..... 134 001 00x—9

Batteries: Miller, Watson, Braxton and Gowdy; Gibson, Ring and Henline.

ST. LOUIS.—Cincinnati trounced the Cardinals, 7 to 4, in the first of the two game series, Frank Keck, phenomenal recruit, holding the locals several times after they got men on bases. The visitors hit three local twirlers to all sections of the park. George Burns getting four hits out of five times to the plate. Keck weakened a bit in the latter part of the game, but the locals could not overcome the visitors' lead. Score:

Cincinnati ..... 211 010 002—7
St. Louis ..... 000 000 023—4

Batteries: Keck and Wingo; Pertica, North, Bailey and Ainsmith.

BASEBALL BRIEFS

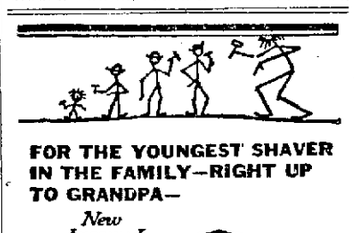

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—Babe Ruth, returning to the game after his recent suspension of five days, socked out a home run off Jack Quinn in the fifth with two on bases. The hit put across the six to four triumph of the New York team over Boston. Bob Shawkey clinched the victory for himself with another circuit blow in the ninth.

Coveleskie held St. Louis in check while his Cleveland mates hit Pruett hard and won six to nothing, thus enabling the Yanks to gain a full game on the league leading Browns. Two and a half games separated the rivals Tuesday.

Jimmy Ring twirled Philadelphia to its fifth straight victory over Boston and the Quakers climbed out of last place while the Braves tumbled to the bottom.

Cincinnati hit three St. Louis pitchers hard and continued its winning streak by winning, 7 to 4.

NORMAL SCHOOL GRADUATES NO LONGER TO BE UNIVERSITY STARS; CONFERENCE RULING

At the meeting of the faculty representatives and athletic directors of the Big Ten conference, held just before the conference meet at Iowa City recently, changes were made which practically mean the passing of Normal school graduates as university athletic stars.

The rule adopted is: "All Normal school competition shall hereafter come under the same ruling as university competition and shall count in figuring up the 'three years' of competition allowed to Big Ten athletes."

When considered in full this means, virtually, that athletes must now choose between Normal schools and universities. It will be no longer possible for a man to go from a Normal school to a university to prolong his athletic career. Coach Bob Zuppke of Illinois was strongly in favor of the new ruling.

Tramp-Athlete Banned

The faculty members and coaches also decided on a "tramp-athlete" rule as follows: "Any athlete leaving a school while ineligible must remain in the school of his second choice for two years before he can be eligible to compete." A tramp-athlete is one who leaves a Normal school for a university, or vice versa.

The meeting further decided that any athlete who plays summer baseball under any circumstances for which admission is charged shall be ruled ineligible for further competition in the conference.

"Landis of Big Ten"

A committee of three, consisting of the following men, was named: T. E. Jones, Wisconsin, chairman; F. H. Yost, Michigan; A. St. Johns, Ohio State. This committee named one man who is to be the "Landis of the Big Ten." He has already been selected, but his name will not be made public for several months. This is being done in order to enable him to work unhampered.

COMPETING CREWS STILL KEYED UP BY NAVAL ACADEMY WIN

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Competing oarsmen and rowing experts Tuesday were still keyed up by the intercollegiate regatta won by the naval academy crew on the Hudson.

It appeared to be almost the unanimous opinion of both those participating and witnessing the three-mile race, that it was the greatest crew spectacle and the most gruelling contest ever staged in the history of the sport in this country.

Next to the remarkable power, stamina and skillful blade work of the Navy, the splendid performance of the University of Washington eight, was the chief topic of discussion.

Cornell supporters felt that much of the brilliancy of the race was due to the determined manner in which John Hoyle's combination set such a killing pace from the start and forced the navy in early stages of the race to travel at high stroke and speed without any intermission for breath recovery.

With the apparent determination to restore the four-mile contest there appeared to be more than a possibility that the 1923 regatta mile be rowed on the Hudson here, notwithstanding the evident desire of some of the participating institutions to stage the race on Seneca or Cayuga lake.

DAHL'S FORDS IN EASY VICTORY OVER WILE BROTHERS, 6-1

Game Called in Sixth on Account of Darkness; Near Riot on Umpires Decision

Dahl's Fords on Tuesday morning still maintained its perfect record in the Junior league standing as a result of defeating the Wile Brothers at Hixon field Monday evening, 6 to 1.

The game temporarily broke up in the third inning on protest of the Wile Brothers on a decision of a ball hit along the first base line. Wile had men on bases with two out when a ball hit down the first base line, which made an easy out, was ruled fair by the umpire. The Fords started off with three in the first, scoring one each in the third, fifth and sixth innings. Wiles scored their lone run in the third inning.

Score by innings:

Dahl's Fords ..... 301 011—6
Wile Brothers ..... 001 000—1

Batteries: Wiltinger and Voss; Anderson and Finaninger.

MARKET UNDER PRESSURE

Confusing Movements of Mexican Petroleum Check Tendency to Better Conditions; Rails Weak

NEW YORK—Any tendency towards improvement during the morning was checked by the more bewildering movements of Mexican Petroleum and firmer tone of the money market, call money opening at five per cent. Mexican Petroleum extended its early decline to 191, from it rallied to 198½ followed by another setback. Losses of one to two and one-half points resulted from pressure against Pan-Americans, Producers and Refiners, California Petroleum, Standard of New Jersey and California and General Asphalt. Reactions of one to two points included such favorites as Baldwin, Studebaker, Bethlehem and Crucible. St. Paul preferred was weakest of the rails, falling almost three points and coalers also yielded.

The only noteworthy feature of the early stock market dealings was the further erratic course of Mexican Petroleum. Opening at 200, an overnight gain of five points, the stock soon reacted to 194½. Pan-American "A" lost 1¼ points, while the "B" stock gained a large fraction. Otherwise, oils and the active list generally showed irregularity. Tobacco, motor and food specialties improved moderately. Shippings and equipments eased and changes in the railway list were trifling.

Mexican Petroleum was the center of a concerted selling movement in the final hour, dropping to 182. Pan-Americans were about six points lower and the general list registered losses of 1½ to 3 points. The close was heavy, sales 750,000 shares.

WHEAT PRICES GAIN

Wheat Moves Upward on Expectations of a Rally; Trading Lacks Volume

CHICAGO, Ill.—Wheat scored a moderate gain in price Tuesday during the early dealings, traders acting on the view that something of a rally was to be expected after recent declines. Business lacked volume and the market was easily affected. The opening, which ranged from ⅜c decline to ¼c advance with July $1.11 to ⅛ and September $1.12½ to ¾ was followed by an upturn all around to well above Monday's finish.

Disappointing thresing returns led to a further advance later and so did talk of better milling and export demand. Besides reports that black rust was spreading in Minnesota were current near the end of the session. Prices closed strong, 2¾ to 3⅛c net higher, July $1.14⅛ to ¼ September $1.15⅜ to ½c.

Corn was firmer with wheat. After opening ⅛c off to ⅛c up July 61⅝ to 62c the market made a slight general advance.

Subsequently dry weather complaints from parts of Iowa and Illinois were bullish factors. The close was firm, ¾ to ⅞c higher, July 62½ to ⅝c.

Oats started at ⅛c decline to ⅛c advance and after a slight sag ascended with other grain.

Provisions were higher.

WHERE SCORES WERE KILLED IN ILLINOIS MINE WAR

This bank of earth thrown up by a steam shovel acted only as a temporary barrier when the strip mine at Herrin, Ill., was attacked and several score of men were killed and injured. This photograph was taken just before the trouble when officials were looking over the ground in anticipation of the struggle that followed. In the foreground are (1) State Senator W. J. Sneed, sub-district official of the miners' union, (2) Col. S. N. Hunter of the Illinois Militia and (3) Melville Tharton, sheriff of Williamson county.

LA CROSSE PUT IN CLASS 3 IN STATE INSURANCE RATING

Re-Classification of Cities of State Now Being Made by Insurance Department

MADISON, Wis.—Over half the cities of the state have been re-rated under the fire insurance law according to the announcement of the insurance department on Tuesday.

In accordance with an order issued in July, 1920, by Platt Whitman, commissioner of insurance, a re-rating of all fire insurance risks on the mercantile, manufacturing and public building classes is being made in this state. This re-rating is being conducted by the Wisconsin inspection bureau, a fire insurance rate making organization maintained by the insurance companies, with headquarters at Milwaukee, Wis.

Previous to 1917, the condition of the fire insurance business in this state was very unsatisfactory, due to the discriminatory practices in vogue. Through competition for business and personal influence exerted, it was possible for certain persons to secure and insure for 50 to 75 per cent of the amount paid by their neighbor who owned risks essentially the same fire hazards. An injustice was being done to the owners of property who were unable to secure these rebates as their rates were loaded sufficiently so that the companies could afford to carry the risks upon which rebates were granted. Chapter 61 of the laws of 1917, gave the commissioner of insurance supervision over the making of fire insurance rates in the state. This chapter provided that rates should be non-discriminatory and reasonable.

To administer this properly it was deemed advisable by Commissioner Whitman to have every risk in this state re-rated using the same measuring stick. As this re-rating would result in an increase in the rates of those people who formerly received rebates, the basis schedules to be used in the re-rating work were lowered 12 to 14 per cent. This reduction is being enjoyed at the present time by those people who had never received any rebates.

This re-rating was commenced in July, 1920, and up to date approximately 50 per cent of the state has been covered. The word was started in the northern section of the state and has been delayed somewhat due to the lack of expert help and the inaccessibility of the various cities in that locality. Operations have been speeded up and at the present time there are four crews with a total of 19 inspectors engaged exclusively in this work. In addition to these 19 men, there are 22 other rating engineers engaged in making new rates on risks in the southern part of the state where a change of fire hazard has occurred. These risks are also being rated on the lower basis tables.

Cities are classified as to grade of municipal fire protection, the classes ranging from class 1 to class 6, a class 1 town being a city with fire protection of the highest grade, while a class 6 town is one without any organized fire protection. There are 968 cities and villages involved in this rating program of which 476 have been completed.

Class 2½—Appleton and Green Bay.

Class 3—La Crosse.

Class 3½—Antigo, Ashland, Beloit, Chippewa Falls, Eau Claire, Green Bay, Manitowoc, Marinette, Merrill, Rice Lake, Rhinelander and Wausau.

Class 4—Thirty-five towns have been finished, including: Bayfield, Durand, Hudson, Hurley, Kaukauna, Menomonie, Mosinee, Neillsville, Oconto, River Falls, Shawano, Spooner, Sturgeon Bay, Two Rivers.

Class 4½—Sixty-five towns have been finished, including: Algoma, Augusta, Barron, De Pere, Kewaunee, Medford, New Richmond, Park Falls, Peshtigo, Shell Lake, West Allis, Whitehall.

Class 5—Forty-five towns have been finished and 57 remain to be re-rated. This class is composed of small cities and villages with very little fire protection. The completed towns include: Abbotsford, Caroline, Coleman, Crandon, Hortonville, Wauzeka, Withee, Yuba.

Class 6—Towns in this class are without any organized municipal fire protection; 300 have been re-rated and 275 remain to be inspected.

This re-rating program has been under the direct supervision of Charles J. Timbers, deputy commissioner of insurance, and his tabulation of the results to date show an average decrease of 1 per cent as compared with the rates published prior to 1917. As it is impossible to secure definite data as to the number of rebates formerly granted, an intelligent comparison cannot be made between the rate level under the new basis tables and the rates charged previous to 1917. The amount of annual premium involved in this re-rating is $13,000,000.

CHARLES RISTOW IS FINED; RAN AN AUTO WITHOUT A LICENSE

Charles Ristow was fined $10 and costs by County Judge Brindley on charges of operating an automobile without license plates. The warrant for his arrest was sworn out by R. W. Dixon, state auto license inspector. Ristow was driving a car that he had purchased from Frank Kleinertz, using the license plates that had been issued to Kleinertz. Ristow told the court that he hadn't paid for the car yet and that he was under impression he could use Kleinertz' plates until he had paid for the car. Kleinertz also was fined $10 for allowing his license plates to be used by Ristow. Kleinertz' excuse was that as long as Ristow hadn't paid for the car he believed the car his property until it had been paid for.

Aid to Amateur Astronomer

The fascinating study of the stars is the oldest of the sciences, and one which has interested human beings for ages. The average person who has not the time to take up this extensive study, but whom the stars interest as he gazes up at them on a clear night, is usually bewildered if he tries to distinguish one from the other. As an aid to the amateur astronomer a star map has been drawn, which shows the star of the first five magnitudes, and the different constellation groupings. The stars of the first four magnitudes and the lines showing the constellation groupings, are marked with radium salt, thus making them shine at night.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

GAMES OF CHANCE BARRED BY HALL AT COUNTY FAIRS

Games Where Winning Depends Upon Skill Permitted in Secretary's Ruling

MADISON, Wis.—The wily shell game, the devil's bowling alley and other games of chance were banned as amusements for fairs in Wisconsin by Secretary of State Elmer S. Hall. In a letter to all inspectors and fair secretaries Mr. Hall states that the Attorney General has ruled that any game for which the winning of a prize depended upon the skill of the operator was permissible and was not a game of chance. The following games are barred for the fairs under the Attorney General's ruling:

Any game or device having a concealed premium.

Any form of the old pickout game in which the numbers are concealed from the player.

The devil's bowling alley. This game is a device where the balls are always in motion and the player selects a ball at random and wins a prize according to the number on the ball.

The marble roll on a tilted platform and all kinds of spindle games operated either with a drag or a stop.

Any game where money is a prize.

Any roll down where more than one ball is used.

Spindle wheels of all descriptions.

ATTRACTIVE MUSICAL BILL AT THE RIVOLI TONIGHT

Rex Reynold's Metropolitan Quintette give a complete change of program beinning today and promise even better selections than those enjoyed the first part of the week.

Following is the program which well substantiates the above statement:

1—Carmena Waltz, by quartet.
2—"Say it with music."
3—"In the Little Red School House," by Bobbie Pierce.
4—"Tell Her at Twilight," by Mr. Rashig.
5—"Blue Bird Land," by Miss Moor.
6—"Mello Cello," toe dance, by Bobbie Pierce.
7—"Gypsy Love Song," by Mrs. Reynolds.
8—"Italian Street Song" from "Naughty Marietta," by Julia Keith and quartet.

If any of our patrons have any favorite numbers sung by this company during the first part of the week, Mr. Reynolds says they will be glad to repeat them upon request.

Do You Know Your Dress Was Washed Before You Bought It?

By DOROTHY VERNON

Yes, fabric manufacturers wash their new materials before they weave them. But of course they do not use the ordinary white or yellow laundry soap because it contains so much water-glass and other "fillers" which rub into the fibers and rot them.

The experts use olive oil soap. For science does not know any other cleanser to equal olive oil for loosening dirt, softening and freshening fibers and protecting colors.

"What a pity soap manufacturers don't make a laundry soap containing olive oil!" I recently remarked to a fabric maker.

"There is one," he said, "a large green bar called GREEN ARROW, manufactured by The Palmolive Co. It is all soap—no 'filler.' Women who use it use fewer bars per washing because it is all soap and naturally goes much farther than a bar that's only part soap mixed with 'filler.' Filler has no cleaning power, and nothing counts on wash-day except soap."

Washed with pure GREEN ARROW soap, combining olive oil and naphtha, your clothes will retain that freshness and softness they have when new. Such soap does not redden or burn the hands. Two or three trials will convince you that it is folly to keep on using ordinary laundry soap when something so much better can now be had.

I want to recommend GREEN ARROW for your dishes and woodwork too. In the first place it never makes hands red or rough. I find that I do not need to have the water so uncomfortably hot when doing my dishes with GREEN ARROW Soap; in fact, lukewarm water does quite as well.

Get pure GREEN ARROW Laundry Soap from your grocer; see what service has done for the family wash.

BATTLE OVER PROHIBITION EXPECTED AT DEMOCRATIC CONFERENCE IN MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE.—By the Associated Press.—Representatives of the democratic party of Wisconsin met here Tuesday in conference to consider means of rebuilding the party organization within the state, to endorse candidates for office at the September primary elections and to draft a platform on which these candidates will appeal to the voters for support.

Leaders of the party are confident that out of the meeting which they say should be the most successful in recent years, will come a thorough state-wide organization, prepared to carry the campaign of democratic candidates to the people in an effort to capture state offices and legislative positions which are now held by republicans.

They are faced, however, with a new element among the electorate and with an issue in state politics that has lately assumed a peculiar importance. Women are found to have become active in democratic politics and to have taken a hand in the prohibition issue with which the men were wont to bicker.

The women voters appeared in practically all county conventions held Saturday and took a hand in the fight that has been brewing over a proposal that the Wisconsin democratic party declare for modification of the Volstead act to permit the manufacture of wine and beer. They have made certain a floor battle should the party tackle this problem.

There is a likelihood that one faction at the convention, led by Mayor A. A. Bentley of La Crosse as their candidate for governor, will push the proposed platform plank declaring for less rigid prohibition enforcement. This faction has been informed by the dry group that any such attempt will be vigorously opposed, to the extent of setting up a dry slate of candidates for office, should the wets be successful in their plan.

Miles C. Riley of Madison, is looked to as spokesman for the dry forces and with Sidney T. Smythe, president of St. Johns Military Academy, is named as a possible dry candidate for governor on the democratic ticket.

Whether or not there will be a split in the ranks of the party depends upon what develops today on the floor of the convention.

John P. Hume, chairman of the state central committee, has pointed out that nothing that the conference does will nominate its candidates nor pledge the party platform. Not until after the September primaries will the Democratic candidates be known definitely, he said, and not until they have met and framed a platform will any action bind the party.

This stand has not cleared away the division that is reported to exist and to be widened by the presence of women who have taken a stand with the dry element. It is their contention that the party should either avoid the issue or declare for a policy of law enforcement in the same manner that factions of the republican party did.

Charge has been made by the wets that R. P. Hutton, superintendent of the Wisconsin anti-saloon league has been trying to pack the convention by influencing county delegations which were selected last week.

All indications point to the fact that the wet and dry issue is the principal one before the convention, and that it may likely result in a division to run on a dry platform—the other to name a wet slate to run on a wet platform.

The convention was called to order at ten o'clock this morning by Thomas M. Kearney of Racine, Wisconsin.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad for Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

TEN CENTS A MILE IS AVERAGE COST OF RUNNING A CAR

MADISON, Wis.—It costs the average automobile owner in Wisconsin 10 cents a mile to operate his car, the state railroad commission has determined from extensive hearings held during the past years on grade crossing relocation matters. This cost has become standard in all commission computations.

Railroads report that one relocation which resulted in shortening the highway 1.07 miles, brought a saving of $78,000 to the automobile owners of the state on the basis of traffic of 100 cars a day. The companies say that a grade crossing elimination costing thousands of dollars is worth just $12,93 to them.

PULLING TOGETHER

This store believes in co-operation. Without co-operation its service to the public would be ineffective. Without teamwork it would not be the great store which its patrons know. In the multiplicity of its departments there must be a "pull-all-together" or failure. That is what we want for La Crosse. That is why this store is rooting for the reorganization of the La Crosse Chamber of Commerce. It believes that the principles of service and "pull-all-together" upon which the Chamber of Commerce is being organized spell progress for the city in civic and commercial ways.
